DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

At an adjourned meeting of the Democratic Republicans at Faneuil Hall, on Friday evening, for the purpose of choosing a County Committee, Col. J. L. C. Ames in the chair, J. G. Murray, N. P. Snelling, E. A. Vose, and G. W. Smith, Secretaries, the Chairman briefly stated the object of the meeting, when Capt. N. P. Snelling, from the committee of Democratic Republicans who assembled at the Exchange Coffee House, submitted the following resolutions, which were adopted:—

Resolved, That this meeting cordially acquiesce with the Democratic Legislative Convention in their recommendation of a re-organization of the Democratic party, upon a basis suited to the growing spirit of the times, and in accordance with the principles laid down by Jefferson and Jackson.

Resolved, As the sense of this meeting, that any officers interference by the officers of the General Government in our local elections, is inconsistent with the fundamental principles of Democracy, and is in opposition to the known opinions of Jefferson and Jackson.—We do most solemnly protest against any such practice, and pledge ourselves to each other to resist by all fair and honorable means, every attempt that may be made, unduly to influence and control the action of the party.

Resolved, That this meeting establish the following rules for the government of the County Committee, viz:—

1st. The County Committee shall call meetings of the Democratic electors of this city in season to make the necessary nominations and arrangements before the elections by the people.

2nd. The Chairman of the County Committee shall call no meeting of the party without being first ordered to do so by a vote of the Committee—and all notices of such meetings shall be signed by the Chairman and Secretary, and shall specify the subjects to be considered by the citizens.

3rd. The Chairman of the County Committee shall call the committee together whenever requested in writing by any three members of the committee—and the County committee shall call public meetings of the party whenever requested in writing to do so, by twenty of the Democratic voters of the city, and whenever the same number of voters shall request the committee to insert any particular subject for the consideration of the party in their notices for any public meeting, the committee shall grant their request.

4th. The County Committee shall make no nominations of candidates for office, without being first expressly ordered to do so by a vote at some previous public meeting of the party, and their authority shall cease to all intents and purposes at the end of the year for which they may be elected.

5th. The County Committee may fill vacancies in their own body by ballot, and all the elections and nominations in that body shall be by ballot.

6th. The County Committee shall keep a record of their doings, to be open to the inspection of any member of the Democratic party—and said record shall be submitted for examination at every public meeting of the party.

A motion was made, that a committee of two from each Ward, and two from South Boston, be appointed as inspectors, and to check the names of individuals as they deposit their votes.

Mr W. K. Stacy moved, in consequence of the inaccuracy of the list, any individual, on applying to vote, should be permitted to do so by having his name inserted upon said list.

The polls were then opened for the choice of County Committee, and by a vote of the meeting, agreed to be kept open till 9 o'clock.

The Secretaries were directed to sort and count the votes, when the following result was announced, and the individuals whose names are annexed, declared duly elected:—

Ward 1.—Peter Dunbar, Wm. C. Perkins.
Ward 2.—Dexter Dickinson, Nathan Carruth.
Ward 3.—John Snelling, John A. Mahan.
Ward 4.—Asa Lewis, W. R. Stacy.
Ward 5.—Ewd A. Raymond, N. P. Snelling.
Ward 6.—Geo. W. Bazin, Wm. Washburn.
Ward 7.—Dean Willis, Charles Henshaw.
Ward 8.—Asa Page, Samuel Dexter.
Ward 9.—Daniel Draper, John B. Meserve.
Ward 10.—Enoch Martin, Chas. S. Hunt.
Ward 11.—Levi Abell, Nathaniel Frothingham, 2d.

J. L. C. AMES, Chairman.
JOHN G. MURRAY,
EDWARD A. VOSE,
N. P. SNELLING,
GEORGE W. SMITH, Secretaries.

The Journeymen Cabinet Makers of New York are now standing out for an increase of wages, or rather, for a regulation of their present prices for the different kinds of work, so as to make them conform to the late changes in the fashion and style of the various articles of their manufacture. "The journeymen do not," (says the N. Y. Transcript,) we believe, consider the new regulations they are contending for an advance of wages, but as necessary to the permanent maintenance of their present prices; while the employers consider their demand as advance on the present wages."

The Parlor Book, or Family Encyclopedia of Useful Knowledge, is one of the most beautiful and serviceable publications we have seen for many a year. It contains about four thousand articles, upon scientific and popular subjects, designed for instruction and amusement, and is ornamented with elegant colored engravings. The work is published by Mr Wm. D. Ticknor.

The New Yorkers are going to give J. S. Knowles a splendid benefit on the 8th inst. The Star justly remarks—"It is due to his genius and talents—to his writings, in which there always runs a vein of pure morality and love of liberty—to his excellent private character, which was stated by a member of the committee who knew him well in all his domestic relations, to be without a stain."

The "Pet of the Petticoats," a new piece to be brought out at the Tremont this evening, is said to be a very funny affair, and the principal character, which is to be sustained by Mrs Maeder, peculiarly adapted to her powers. The girls and beaux are rubbing their opera glasses.

We would ask attention of our readers to some beautiful specimens of ornamental Penmanship at the entrance of Amory Hall. They were executed by Mr Richardson, a young Bostonian, who has been favourably known as a superior instructor, and excellent penman for some years past.

How do you like this, Messrs. Clay and Webster?—The inhabitants of Charleston, S. C., on the 21st ult. invited Mr Calhoun, whose name they say "is justly identified with EVERYTHING that is distinguished in the history of our country for the last twenty years," to partake of a public dinner. In his reply, declining the invitation, he speaks of the mighty assumption of power he has contended against—the awful corruption which exists, &c., and thus attributes the cause of these evils to his friends, the supporters of the Tariff, Messrs. Webster and Clay:—

"To understand correctly, what has been done, and what remains to be done, we must bear constantly in mind the nature and the cause of the controversy. We must go back to the fact, that it originated in the violation of the Constitution; that sacred compact, which united the States in one great Confederacy—constituted for the mutual protection of the rights and interests of the members, which compose it, but which had been in practice converted by construction into an instrument to aggrandize one portion of the Union, by the sacrifice of another. The particular mode by which this was effected, need not be explained. It is familiar to all. Suffice it to say, that, with a full treasury, duties were laid on duties—taxes on taxes, till the overflow of revenue drawn from one section and disbursed on the other, became almost too superabundant for the most extravagant expenditure."

How the coat fits.—During the evening debate of the last day of the last session of Congress, Mr Wright, in allusion to the course certain Senators were taking to defeat the fortification bill, observed that there were those during the last war who did more by their Congressional course to aid the enemy than their own country. Mr Webster immediately rose and demanded whether the gentleman meant any thing personal.—Had he been accused?

Zeal, a strong Whig, pays the following merited compliment to Gen. Todd, the new Post Master at Portland:—

"Mr Todd has contrived to introduce within the short period of a month or two, more substantial improvements, than we should have expected from all his predecessors put together, in a quarter of a century.—The Portland Post office is now as convenient, as handsome, and under as good regulation, to say the least of it, as any Post Office with which we are acquainted—at home or abroad—for superior, in fact, to that of many a larger city of much larger pretensions."

The Political 'Quid,' of the Essex Gazette, who has been chawed up and spit out, as Crockett would say, by a half dozen different parties in a less number of years, is as raving as a bed-bug, and smells as bad, but of less importance.

The name of Reis Effendi, is not Asa, we believe, dear Thayer, and he now resides in England, where he has been for some time. Your other personal allusions are about as true, and as well grounded, as those in reference to Mr Payne.

Major Noah speaks of the appearance of a Bear in New York as something uncommon. We thought those animals numerous in Gotham—they were so at least in the panic time.

Mr Fay's Argument before the Committee of the House of Representatives, upon the petition of Bishop Fenwick and others, has been issued in a handsome pamphlet from Eastburn's press.

Opera glasses a pair of baby's stockings, five dollars, and a pencil case—his whole stock in trade, save a goose quill and a sheet and a half of paper.

Virginia.—The elections in this state commenced on Thursday last—they will continue for several weeks.

Notwithstanding the contradiction published in the Massachusetts Spy of our account of the decision of the Taverners of Worcester to close their houses, we are informed by one of the most respectable citizens of that town, that what we stated is the truth. The houses are closed.

We have received a communication upon the subject of Imprisonment for Debt, but as that question appears to be settled for the present, we do not think it worth while to stir it at this moment.

We have received the most cheering accounts of the state of political feeling in the Western portion of the State—old Democracy is putting on its armour.

Baltimore Convention.—The democratic members of the Legislature of Louisiana, had a meeting on the 10th ult., at which resolutions were passed approving of the convention to be held at Baltimore on the 20th of May, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States. The following gentlemen were appointed delegates:—J. B. Plache, B. Z. Canonge, Martin Gordon, Charles Gayerre, Gilbert Leonard, Bernard Marigny, W. Christy, E. W. Ripley, T. O. Davidson, Victor Patin, W. Barron, Adolph Cousin, P. E. Bosser, Joseph Walker, Alexander Mouton, A. Lecomte and J. H. Overton.

The whigs have claimed General Ripley as one of their party. His appointment as a delegate to the Baltimore Convention will probably settle the question.—N. Y. Times.

A farm near Monmouth in New Jersey, which was purchased a few years ago for about two dollars an acre, recently sold for thirty. This extraordinary increase of value has been produced by the effect of marl upon the soil. From this, many of our fellow citizens in the country can infer what treasures they possess, either on their own lands or within reach of them. Land owners throughout Maryland are greatly indebted to the Legislature for providing for a full geological examination of every county in it.—Balt. Farmer and Gardiner.

POLICE COURT.

Back door folks ringing of the front door.—Some twenty years ago, if a couple of boys engaged in a "set-to" the one who came off "second best" never dreamt of redeeming his tarnished honor by obtaining a criminal condemnation of his conqueror, but put himself in training, to renew the fight under more favorable auspices. In those days of simplicity, such young larks concerned themselves but little about such sublime matters as "the supremacy of the laws," except those of the "ring," which were most sacredly respected. But now-a-days, if a doused cranny get his ribs tickled, his nob tapped, his daddies peeled, his ivory knocked down his gorge, or his

with the conceit completely milled out of him, and the bystanders "flashing the white grin, like a basket of chips," he cowardly nuzzles off to the Police, and then there complains, that So-and-so did him then and there with force and arms, beat, bruise, and evil treat, wherefore he prays that he, the said So-and-so, may be brought before the honorable court, to be dealt with according to the statute in such cases made and provided. This course of proceeding, however, unchivalric, is in every prudential respect, a very decided improvement upon the old method, by which the sufferer took the law into his own hands, as by the modern mode, a host of right worthy functionaries, such as reporters, judges, clerks, counsellors, and constables, are maintained by the tax which the victor pays for being eminent, and having his triumphant achievements proclaimed, through the medium of an illuminated Police Report, to an eager and delighted public—"O, how the world improves as we grow older."

The grave reflections contained in the preceding introduction, were suggested by the complaint of Henry Orr against Dennis Murphy—

"Phobos, what a name
To fill the speaking trumpet of future fame."

Orr was a lad of 18, and Murphy might be 16, and was a right tidy chick, with some pretensions to style, and well-combed hair, but somewhat marred by an unseemly cowlick on the forehead. The cause of their difficulty was "one of great importance to the gentle portion of society," as will appear from the circumstances:—Both boys were "men servants," living in "respectable families;" and on Friday last Orr accused one Toby, a real man, that is, one-and-twenty, of having rung the front door bell of his master's house, and inquired for himself, who, being but a domestic, was not, by the rules of this republic, whig city, entitled to the honor of being called for at the front door, which was consecrated to the members of the family, and their company. In consequence of this pollution and indecorous desecration of the front door, by a servant's visitor, Orr alleged that his master had threatened to discharge him, and hire a boy whose acquaintances knew their places well enough to knock at the back door, when they came a visiting to the "kitchen colonel." Orr added further, that Toby committed this act of levelling, presumptuous, outrageous front door indignity, with the wicked design of getting him turned away from his place. Toby denied this charge in toto; he then belonged to good masters too well for to go to be guilty of such a rude trick as that."

He had probably spent a winter quarter at the school of the good lady, whose written sign, wafered to a pane of glass, said—"Redin an spelin a pene a weak—but them as larn manurs a pene exter, with workin samplers."

Notwithstanding Toby's denial, Orr reiterated his accusation, with the additional spice of such kitchen compliments as "mean skunk" and "liar." This tart language did not much disturb the equanimity of Toby, but kindled the more sensitive indignation of his younger friend, Murphy, who resented it, and challenged Orr to say the same to him, and to raise his dander, gave him a couple of courage-stirring slaps in the face. In response to these stimulating provocatives, aiming point blank at Murphy's vulturing cellar,

"Harry tipped him a dose, when taken,
It is n't the stuff, but the patient that's shaken."

Murphy, made feelingly sensible that there was game in his fowl, flung down his hat, and up with his short sleeves, and went to work like a regular demolisher. According to the testimony of a couple of hackmen who were present and relished the sport, there was

"Near miling this round—what with clouts on the nob,
Home hits in the bread basket, clicks in the gob,
And plumps in the daylight, a prettier treat,
Between two Johnny Raws, 'tis not easy to meet."

The battle continued, till Orr, according to his own confession, became so confounded by Murphy's cramming, that he did not know whether he hit or missed. He was brought to a little, when his muns yielded elated, and he heard the crystal of his watch crack by a customer aimed at his lower rib. He then remembered that he was much distressed, and tried to get away, but Murphy followed him up so tight, he could not clear.—Being advised by some lover of justice, at least of law, Orr had his enemy brought up before the Court, where Toby, "the primal cause of all his woe," in return for Murphy's gallantry, in punishing Harry for his insolence to himself, could do no less than swear him clear of the scrape, by testifying that all Murphy did was in self-defence, that Harry "passed for an American," but that "Murphy was an English fellow," and that Harry, to insult him, called him a John Bull.

In the decision of this weighty case, his honor rather inclined to the side of Harry, the more so peradventure, that Murphy had somewhat imprudently hired a lawyer to defend him, which of course amounted to an implication upon the even handed justice and impartiality of the court. His honor, held that so far from being a term of reproach or insult, the appellation of John Bull was a highly honorable national cognomen, rich in ancient, patriotic and glorious associations, and was always regarded by those to whom it lawfully appertained as a title to precedence, honor and respect all the world over.—Therefore the defence failing, Murphy was ordered to pay a fine of $2.00 and costs—5.95—which being paid, after several unsuccessful attempts to borrow it, Murphy remarked, "I'm only sorry I didn't give him more of it while I was about it."

Death by voluntary Starvation.—Samuel James, a cooper, died lately at Reading, Pa. from starvation—having voluntarily abstained from food and drink of every kind except water, for fifty days. No other cause than a species of hypochondria is assigned for the act. He has left a widow and five children.

FOREIGN SUMMARY.—From the N. Y. Star.

There is a girl by the name of Mary Chapman, lately brought up before the London Police, who had hitherto been well known in London as rather a dashing young fellow in frock coat, man's hat and segar in her mouth,—she followed the occupation of an itinerant ballad-singer and erier of the "last dying speech" of Newgate convicts. Her companions were two Miss Watsons, and all three were ladies of rather doubtful character. After the denouement, and as the gentleman walked out of court, one of the other ladies said, they had travelled over all England together, and he had never been in a scrape before. Isabella said to him—"never mind my lad."

The young Duke of Buccleugh, one of the wealthiest noblemen of the British empire, is one of those honorable exceptions of persons of his rank, who make their fortune and influence a blessing to society. He is the most distinguished patron of agriculture in Scotland; and the tenantry of the Three Lothians, where his property chiefly lies, are, without distinction of party, about to give him a dinner in Edinburgh, which it is said, will surpass in splendor, any public compliment of the kind ever paid.

Fruits of Prussian Education.—Austria with 11 millions of inhabitants, has only one ninth the number of towns possessing printing presses that Prussia with the same population has, and one third less than Saxony, which has but a million and a half of population. Leipzig is the greatest book mart, then Berlin, then Stuttgart, which publishes one third more than Vienna. "Ignorance is bliss," says the iron-crowned monarch of Austria.

Cure for Somnambulism.—A gentleman at an Inn at Manchester, dreaming he was attacked by robbers, jumped out of his bedroom window up to his chin in a butt of water, when he began to cry "murder!" with some reason, to the no small amusement of the other lodgers who were awakened, and soon him relieved from his dilemma.

"The Melodies of Scotland and Songs of Burns," a magnificent work commenced forty years ago, and for which Burns wrote his immortal lyrics, has recently been republished in five volumes, folio, with all the successive piano, flute, violin and violoncello accompaniments, by Pleyel, Haydn, Beethoven, Weber, and Hummel.

The action recently brought by Mr. Gully, M. P. late professor of pugilism, against a weekly paper, is for a charge of said Gully having administered poison to the famous horse Plenipotentiary, at the Doncaster races.

There is a child only eight years of age, in the Faubourg St. Germain, Paris, who translates Latin, Greek, English, and Chinese. He is the son of the circumnavigator D'Urville, who commanded the Astrolabe.

The proposition to abolish celibacy among the Roman Catholic clergy of Portugal, is said to have been received by that body with a lively sentiment of pleasure.

It is conjectured that trains are soon to be introduced in the ladies dresses. Then farewell to quadrilling and waltzing.

Female Intrepidity.—In the interior provinces of New Grenada, in Spanish times, a number of parties of Patriots had sprung up in formidable bodies, who had penetrated to the outskirts of the capital of Santa Fe de Bogota. The Royalists discovered and seized a number of emissaries or spies, who communicated with the Patriots, and among them a woman named Policarpa Salabarrit, born in the town of Guanchais, by means of whom plans and instructions to invade the capital were transmitted to the Patriots. In spite of all the threats and tortures which were inflicted on her, to make her reveal the authors of these documents, found in her possession, she persisted in secrecy to the last, and this heroic woman died with the greatest fortitude, exclaiming to the moment of her execution, "You shall not hear it from my mouth; I will die—and may those live who can free the country."—Bogota paper.

Anecdote.—Two brothers, named Josiah and William, full grown boys, happened to be in a store one evening. The attention of the company was somewhat attracted by a very long watch chain dangling at the fore quarters of Josiah. One of the company asked, "what's the time, Josiah?" With no small ceremony, Josiah drew out his watch, and after examining it sometime, referred it to his brother, and said "Brother William, is that figury nine or figury 'leven?" William after a moment's deliberation declared it to be "figury seven." "Well then," said Josiah, "it lacks half an inch of eight."

Remarkable.—A dog belonging to a gentleman in Wilmington, N. C. was missed some weeks ago, and nothing was heard of it, until one day last week, when a boy was passing by an ice house near the premises of the owner of the animal, was attracted by the whining of a dog, and upon making search, the missing dog was found at the bottom of an ice house, into which it had fallen, about 25 feet below the surface of the ground, where it had remained no less than three weeks without sustenance of any kind. The dog is now alive and doing well.—Press.

A noble act, and worthy of imitation.—Some months since, Mr. Nathaniel Ward, who is deaf and dumb, lost 80 dollars. It appears that an honest rat found it, and the next day sailed for a port in India.—While absent, he, by chance, read in a New York paper the loss of the money, and knowing from the contents that the money belonged to Mr. Ward, Jack, on his return home, returned the money to the owner.—The dishonest, in the higher walks of life, will blush at this fact, of which we have the authenticated particulars.

Coughing at a Mark.—Two young girls, speaking of the sad effects of the whooping cough, of which both were but recently relieved, one said that her "whole frame was affected, and that the blood had rushed out of her eyes and ears at the same time." "That," observed the other, "was nothing to what I felt, for I coughed one of my shoulders out of joint."

Derivation.—Who would suppose that the English word wig is derived from the Latin pilus (a hair.)—Latin, pilus; Spanish, pelo; thence peluca; French, peruque; Dutch, peruk; English, perwick, perwig, periwig, and, by contraction, wig.

Shocking Accident.—Mr. Daniel Ames of Pembroke, N. H. while assisting in the removal of a building last Monday, incautiously stepped in front of a roller, and before the team could be stopped the roller passed over nearly three-quarters of the length of his leg. In this situation he remained until the building could be sufficiently raised to extricate him: the fractured bones and lacerated flesh were mingled together in a most shocking manner. Amputation was performed, and he is now in a hopeful way of recovery.—Courier.

Three negro men engaged in a scuffle in Tradd street, Charleston, S. C., a few nights ago, were charged upon by the city guard, when they took to their heels, running to the water side, and plunged into the river.—Two of them were brought to the shore safe, but the other perished. A guardsman, named Hugh Stenson, is supposed also to have been drowned.

The democracy of Louisiana are moving on the subject of a National Nominating Convention. A meeting of the democratic members of the legislature of that state was held on the tenth of last month, at which spirited resolutions approving of the Baltimore National Convention were passed unanimously.—*N. Fires in Brooklyn.—On Thursday, about 12 o'clock, a small frame house in Jay street, one door from the corner of Water, occupied by a poor family, and belonging to Hugh Dougherty, was burned down. No insurance, policy having expired a few days since.

About half past 7 o'clock last evening, another fire broke out at the foot of the same street, near the East river, in a carpenter's shop and lumber yard, occupied by Mr Rogers. The building was destroyed, together with a considerable quantity of lumber. Property insured.—N. Y. Gaz.

Another Steamboat Sunk.—The Buffalo Advertiser of the 27th ult. states that the steamboat Sheldon Thompson was discovered about daylight that morning, sunk at her moorings near the south bank of Buffalo Creek. The principal part of her main deck under water. No satisfactory cause has been assigned for this fresh disaster.—N. Y. Times.

Death of a Family.—The last Arkansas Gazette notices the death of an entire family, consisting of six adult persons, in the short space of nine days. They resided in Crawford County, and bore the name of Hixon. The father and mother, three brothers and a sister, died. The disease was the Influenza, or Cold Plague, as it is frequently called.—Ibid.

Flannels.—The Comptroller of the Treasury has decided that flannels, composed of silk and woolen, are subject to a duty of 16 cents per square yard, although silk should be the component material of chief value.

There is a brick making machine now in the course of erection near Louisville, which is to be worked by steam power, and is expected to turn out 200,000 well-finished bricks per week.

Four thousand bushels of potatoes, and 4000 loads of wood, have been distributed to the poor of New York, by the city authorities, within the last three months.

The immense commerce of London is still increasing. In 1832, the number of vessels arrived were about 4000; in 1834 it was nearly 5000, with proportionate increase of tonnage.

The Philadelphia Gazette, with the punning propensities peculiar to that place, gives of fish-ail information that but few shad have appeared in their market, and they at the exorbitant price of 500 cents a-piece.

The editor of the Baltimore Young Men's paper has been getting married. We suppose hereafter a portion of the columns of the paper will be devoted to the ladies.

Charles Gifford, an Englishman, is advertised in the Philadelphia papers as having taken from her mother a little girl 2 years old, in a red bombazet frock, &c.

MR. EDITOR—With surprise I noticed in your paper of last Saturday a notice signed Andrew Watkins, which I think would have been better understood by the following signature—Kneeland & Co.

It is very much to be regretted that as the Atlantic System of Medicine discovered by Dr Samuel Thompson, is fast gaining in public estimation, and seems destined to supersede all others and to be received as a healing balm and universal remedy for all the human family that any one sect or party should endeavor to combine themselves inseparably with it, thereby making the system not only unpopular, but completely sectarian. I for one, am determined to withhold my name and influence from all such combinations, by publishing the following extract from the piece in the Concord addressed to William H. Hill, Esq. your readers will see the propriety of the complaint in the aforesaid notice.

J. A. BRO V N, B. P.

"But I rejoice, sir, that light is breaking in upon the subject, and that the discoveries of Dr Samuel Thompson in medical science are beginning to be looked at by the scientific and the learned as something that may possibly concern them. It has been told me in a sneering, contemptuous manner that none but the low, the illiterate and the ignorant are among its advocates. To such, I reply, I well know this system came into existence down low in the vale of obscurity, but being truth of itself, it came up to the light, but it was not so soon seen by a certain class of men intrusted on the success of other systems, than it was struck at, wounded, but not killed—it could not die, for it has in it the principle of life—it is founder was cannibalized—his character traduced—he was persecuted from city to city, accused of murder—imprisoned for his life, and yet he acquitted and still lives, and his system lives, and hundreds of thousands in this country now accord to him the praise due only to a benefactor of our race.

It is a sound argument against Christianity that it was created in a manger—that its first advocates were despised, persecuted men? Then, may it be objected to the Thompsonian system of medicine that its author was born beneath the lowly roof of a New England farm house, and that its early advocates were strangers to literature and science. Infidelity may curl its lip in scorn at the simplicity of the Saviour's life, and the Christian religion will still live on, and always be the best medicine for the soul, and learned men who lay claim to all the medical knowledge the world contains, may look down with contempt upon these new discoveries in the healing art, and still these invaluable medicines will go on effecting these wonderful cures which prove them to be the best medicine for the body.

Signed, S. T. FARWELL.
